

Transliterate Lives

Hello! My name is Kerry Fial and I am one of the collaborators for this 'Transliterate Lives' book review. A little bit about myself that I would like to share with all of you is that I am a senior at Bowling Green State University, studying Middle Childhood Education. Currently, I am on the home stretch of my Student Teaching year, where I am teaching seventh and eighth graders.

I became involved with 'Transliterate Lives' because of Lee Nickoson, who happens to be a former Writing Processes professor. She had asked me if I was interested in being a part of the team, so I jumped on the opportunity and here I am.

This book review has made me so much more aware of how truly different every learner is, with their own set of skills and experiences. Because of Transliterate Lives, my eyes are open to the direction in which technology is not only leading education, but shaping society. I have had a wonderful time reviewing all the segments of Transliterate Lives, and I hope you will find it as appealing and thought provoking as all of us have! Thank you!
